KANSAS CITY CHIEFS PRESIDENT

LAMAR HUNT

Lamar Hunt is a man on the move. He is a man who thrives on challenges, a man who has become one of the most active pioneers in the history of pro sports.

As a young man, Hunt dreamed of owning a professional football team. When he was unable to obtain a franchise in the existing league, he set out to form a new circuit. He found other men who wanted to join him in the venture and in 1959, age the age of 26, he formed the American Football League, and, in 1960, served as the League's first president.

Hunt was happy with the progress of his brain child, but he was far from content. He wanted to see the AFL play the NFL in a World Championship Game. This was his goal.

In March of 1966, Hunt and Tex Schramm, the President and General Manager of the Dallas Cowboys, began a series of talks which eventually led to the agreement between the NFL and the AFL for an expanded pro league. One of the main points of the agreement was that the two leagues would meet in a championship game at the end of the 1966 season. Hunt still had another goal. He wanted to see Kansas City's team play in that First World Championship Game.

Hunt got his wish when, on January 15, 1967, the Kansas City Chiefs met the Green Bay Packers in the first Super Bowl played at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

The high point of the Chiefs history came January 11, 1970 in New Orleans, when the Chiefs defeated the Minnesota Vikings 23-7 in Super Bowl IV.

The AFL played its first season in 1960. Cries of "It won't last a year," . . . "Just a young man's folly," . . . "Where will they get the players," were heard throughout the sports world . . . Last year, as part of pro football's merger, the American Football League became the American Football Conference and absorbed three teams from the established National Football League, thanks in no small measure to the efforts of that young pioneer from Texas, Lamar Hunt. Appropriately, Hunt was elected the first President of the American Football Conference at the 1970 Owners' Meetings in Hawaii.

Three of Kansas City's most active companies, Great Midwest Corporation, Interstate Securities and Traders National Bank, have named Hunt to their Board of Directors. In June of 1968, he was elected to membership on the Board of Trustees of the Professional Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio.

Hunt is a graduate of Southern Methodist University and was a member of that school's football squad. In 1969, he was named "Southwesterner of the Year," the highest honor bestowed by the Texas Sportswriters Association, and in 1963, was selected as "Salesman of the Year" by the Kansas City Advertising and Sales Executives Club. Another volley of awards came to Hunt in 1967. In this same year, in recognition of his contributions to the world of sports, he also received the Dallas Advertising League Award.

Hunt and his wife, Norma, and children, Lamar Jr., Sharon, and Clark, make their home in Dallas.

CHIEFS HEAD COACH

HEAD COACH HANK STRAM

Henry "Hank" Stram is the Kansas City Chiefs Head Coach and has been since Lamar Hunt founded the American Football League and named his own team the Dallas Texans. The inventive and dynamic Stram was the only man to coach a team through the AFL's ten year history.

In his only head coaching job, Stram's record over the 11 years at the Chiefs helm has been outstanding. Stram was the winningest coach in the AFL's decade, the Chiefs were the only team to win three League crowns, and the only team to represent the AFL in two Super Bowl games. As coach of the Chiefs, the popular and highly respected Stram has compiled a record of 94 wins, 53 losses and seven ties.

The Chiefs are the fourth winningest team in professional football and the third winningest team in the American Football Conference. However, it should be noted that Baltimore and Cleveland, the two teams ahead of the Chiefs in the AFC derby, were inherited from the National Football League in pro football's merger.

ATHLETIC HISTORY

Stram is a native of Gary, Indiana. He was an All-State halfback at Lew Wallace High and entered Purdue University on a football scholarship in 1941.

After his first varsity season, Stram was invited to play in the College All-Star Game. However, he had enlisted in the Army reserve in the spring of 1943, and was called to active duty two months before the game was to be played. He remained in the service for three years, returning to Purdue in 1946. In 1948, he was graduated with a B.S. in Physical Education.

Stram won seven monograms at Purdue, four in baseball and three in football. In his senior year he received the highly prized Big Ten Medal which is awarded to the conference athlete who best combines athletics with scholarship.

COACHING BACKGROUND

Immediately upon graduation, Stram joined Purdue's coaching staff and served the next eight years as backfield coach under head coach Stu Holcomb. In 1956, Stram coached at Southern Methodist University, and then spent the following two seasons at Notre Dame, under Terry Brennan. A one-year stint at the University of Miami (Fla.) preceded Hunt's naming him to head his new A.F.L. club.

During his 12 years in the college ranks, Stram gained the reputation as one of the country's most imaginative teachers of offensive football. He is credited with the development of four All-American quarterbacks . . . Dale Samuels and Len Dawson of Purdue, George Izo of Notre Dame and Fran Curci of Miami.

Stram has enlarged upon his reputation as a top offensive tactician and innovator since he joined the pro ranks. His use of the moving quarterback pocket is one of the most talked about developments in pro football. In 1967, he added the Tight-End I to the Chiefs offensive arsenal. This formation has the tight-end shift out of the backfield to either side of the line, thus creating indecision on the opposing team's defensive backfield.

Stram made his mark as a defensive strategist in 1962 when he successfully employed his now famous "stack" defense. In the "stack" Kansas City can present the appearance of being in anything from a three-man to a seven-man front. The various alignments that the "stack" makes possible create a different look to the opposing quarterback, change blocking rules and open the door for a variety of defensive stunts. Several professional clubs have added the "stack" to their defensive repertoire as a result of Stram's success in harassing rival offenses.

CHAMPIONSHIPS

In 1962, when the Chiefs were the Dallas Texans, they won their first A.F.L. Championship with a thrilling 20-17 six quarter victory over the Houston Oilers in the longest football game ever played. The game was not decided until Tommy Brooker kicked a 25 yard field goal 77 minutes and 54 seconds after the game had begun.

THE CHIEFS FRONT OFFICE

Executive Vice President and General Manager

JACK STEADMAN

In August of 1972, the Kansas City Chiefs will play their first game in Arrowhead, the Chiefs new 78,000 seat stadium at the Harry S. Truman Sports Complex. The two-stadium concept was conceived by Kansas City Chiefs Executive Vice President and General Manager Jack Steadman in 1965, and he has been primarily responsible for the design development which will give Kansas City fans the world's finest stadium.

Steadman is the driving force behind the Chiefs administrative staff and has been since November of 1960, when he was given the responsibilities of General Manager of the Dallas Texans. Steadman was promoted to Executive Vice President in 1966.

Recognized as one of the top administrators in professional football, Steadman's tireless efforts and dedication to improve the Chiefs operation have made the Chiefs an integral part of the Kansas City scene. As part of his program for improved community relations, the Chiefs Club was established in 1963 to help promote and develop the Kansas City Chiefs as a community assets. This club has grown into one of the strongest, most active community booster clubs in professional football.

Steadman's objective of providing the best possible service for Chiefs fans has resulted in several noteworthy accomplishments. The Chiefs were the first in pro sports to develop a telephone reservation system for tickets. In 1966, the Chiefs express bus service was put into operation to alleviate traffic congestion around Municipal Stadium and in 1967, the Chiefs ticket records were put on a newly developed IBM data processing system.

When the Chiefs season ticket sales reached an all time low in 1965, Steadman utilized a "Join the Wolfpack Campaign" and the results are borne out by statistics. The Chiefs led the Western Division in attendance three of the last five years. The Chiefs home attendance has increased annually since 1965 to a record 354,480 in 1970 which is 103% of Municipal Stadium seating capacity. Season ticket sales at Municipal Stadium were cut off in 1969 at the 42,000 mark.

Capitalizing on this demand for tickets and the Chiefs Super Bowl victory, Steadman placed on sale season tickets for the Chiefs new stadium on April 15, 1970. The response exceeded anyone's expectations as the Chiefs sold 70,000 season tickets, a record for professional football.

In an unprecedented move, the Chiefs allowed each of their season ticket holders the opportunity to personally select their seats for the new stadium. Never in the history of sports have season ticket holders been given this opportunity when the process of changing stadiums took place.

Despite his demanding work schedule, Steadman remains active in civic affairs. He serves on the Board of Directors of the Greater Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, the Board of Directors of the Kansas City Jackson County unit of the American Cancer Society, is on the Board of Directors of the American Royal Association and Raytown Bank, Vice President of First Fidelity Investment Trust, member of the Civic Council, and President of Mid-America Enterprises.

He and his wife, Martha, and their three children: 20-year-old Tom; Barbara, age 19; and 15-year-old Don, live in suburban Johnson County.

THE STAFF

The Chiefs office force, some 18 strong this season, includes Ron Combest, Secretary-Treasurer, his assistants, Bob Tamasi and Mrs. Dottie Pearce; Bob Wachter, Ticket and Stadium Manager, and his staff of Joe Mazza, Mrs. Barbara Abernathy, Mrs. Betty Swanson, and Mrs. Cathy Hodges.

The Assistant General Manager is Jim Schaaf, Publicity Director is Bill Hamilton, Promotions Director is Lee Derrough, and their secretaries are Miss Pat Carlson and Miss Jan Cassidy.

Miss Gerre Ann Sprague and Miss Margaret Sprague are secretaries to Executive Vice President and General Manager Jack W. Steadman. Miss Ann Rentchler and Mrs. Maureen Aylward are secretaries to Head Coach Hank Stram.

THE CHIEFS MASCOT, WARPAINT

The 1971 Kansas City Chiefs welcome back Warpaint, their official mascot and a seven-year veteran of the world of professional football.

The 17-year-old spotted gelding and his rider, Bob Johnson, gallop around the warning track of Municipal Stadium each time the Chiefs score.

Warpaint is an authentic Indian pony, owned at one time by the Pawnee Indians. He was purchased by Benjamin Stables in Kansas City specifically for use as the Chiefs' mascot. Johnson is associated with Benjamin Stables, and is a "natural" in his role as Warpaint's rider as he is part Osage Indian.

Chiefs Special Organizations and Entertainment

THE CHIEFS CLUB

Official Booster Organization for the Chiefs

RAY EVANS
Chiefs Club President

The Chiefs Club was formed by a group of civic-minded citizens with one goal in mind . . . making Kansas City the strongest franchise in professional football. Its membership currently is approaching the 1,400 mark.

Heading the activities of the Chiefs Club is President Ray Evans. Evans is a former All American at the University of Kansas and a member of the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame. He led the ticket drive that was responsible for obtaining the Chiefs for Kansas City in 1963.

The Chiefs Club's activities during the regular football season center around weekly luncheons held each Thursday at the Advertising and Sales Executives Club, Thursday evening dinner meetings at the U-Smile Stadium Inn, and at least two trips to away games. It was largely through the efforts of this group that the Chiefs season ticket sale increased from 9,500 in 1965 to 33,118 in 1967 and 70,000 for 1972.

To date, 414 members of the Chiefs Club have become Red Coaters, having sold 100 or more season tickets and wear the official red blazer with special pocket emblem signifying their achievement. During the season, the Red Coaters participate in pre-game festivities at every home game, and of course, the Chiefs Club luncheons and dinners.

Jim Lanning was recently elected President of the Red Coaters. Assisting him are First Vice President Don Krouse; Second Vice President Leon Brownfield; Treasurer Jim Pendleton and Secretary Ruth Dahnke. Other directors include: John McDermott, Past President; Bill Grigsby, Leo Eisenberg, Ken Young and Red Hogan. Assisting President Ray Evans in operation of the Chiefs Club is Executive Vice President Jack Wheeler; Treasurer, Max Straube; and Secretary, Bruce Rice.

1971 CHIEFS CHEERLEADERS

The 1969 Kansas City Chiefs Cheerleaders corps is made up of twenty-five girls representing twenty-two high schools and colleges throughout the immediate Kansas City area. This volunteer group of young women was selected May 29 from one hundred and nine girls who tried out in open competition. They range in age from 15 to 20 years old.

The Chiefs Cheerleaders are one of the most active cheerleading squads in professional football. In addition to practice twice a week during the summer, they appear at all home games, and make many public appearances in behalf of the Chiefs organization. The 1971 cheerleaders are directed by Miss Margaret Sprague of the Chiefs staff.

CHIEFETTES PRECISION DRILL TEAM

The Chiefettes, the Chiefs all girl precision drill team, made its first appearance in the pre-season of 1967 and was an instant success with Chiefs fans. Wearing colorful costumes of red and white, accented with sequins and topped with a single feather, these young women add color and beauty to the Chiefs already exciting pre-game and halftime shows.

Formation of the Chiefettes into a precision performing group is the result of many hours of hard work on the part of the girls and their sponsors, Director Johnny Miller and Choreographer Shirley Marley.

From 200 girls who participated in the 1971 tryouts held April 18, seventy-four were chosen to become Chiefettes. The Chiefettes are comprised of girls whose average age is 15 years and who come from every corner of Kansas City. Twenty-five high schools are represented in this group.

THE CHIEFS "ZING BAND"

The Chiefs Music Man, in fact, Mr. Music of Kansas City, is the popular Tony DiPardo. At each home game, Tony and his Zing Band liven up the day's football spectacular with their catchy and entertaining renditions of the numbers which become so much a part of football.

Tony was born in St. Louis, and joined the Joe Reichman Orchestra when he was very young. In 1939, he formed his own band and soon began playing at leading hotels and clubs throughout the country. In 1950, his group came for a limited engagement at one of Kansas City's leading nightclubs, and that "limited" stand continued for eight years.

He is much in demand by private groups, now, playing dances and other events with amazing frequency—and you'll see him and his 15-piece band on the bandstand each time the Chiefs take the field in Municipal Stadium.

CHIEFS PRE-GAME AND HALFTIME ENTERTAINMENT 1971

In 1971, the Kansas City Chiefs will once again bring to their fans the best in pre-game and halftime entertainment for all home games.

Pre-season and regular season schedule of halftime performers is as follows:

Chiefs Championship Game Summaries

1962 AFL CHAMPIONSHIP GAME
KANSAS CITY vs. HOUSTON
Football's Longest Day
December 23, 1962

Football historians will be reliving "the day the Dallas Texans won the American Football League championship" as long as there are football historians. Seldom, if ever, has there been a contest with such drama and excitement as the one played that day in Houston, December 23, 1962.

The Texans, champions of the American Football League's West, got away fast and at halftime held a 17-0 lead over Houston's defending champions. Abner Haynes, the No. 1 touchdown-maker in football in 1962, got both TDs, one on a pass from Len Dawson, the other on a short burst. Tommy Brooker added a field goal.

Houston stormed back in the second half and completely controlled the football. When the regulation 60 minutes were up the score was tied. This time, 17-17.

The two teams then went into sudden-death overtime. The first team to score would be the American Football League champions. The Chiefs won the toss and Hank Stram chose to kick off, figuring his thoroughly fired-up defense could hold the Oilers and his offense would have field position when it got the ball. Inadvertently, Captain Abner Haynes also gave up the wind, a minor factor but nevertheless a factor.

The two great football teams battled back and forth in the extra period with neither offering too serious a threat. Then, as the "fifth" quarter was about to come to a close, the Texans got a break. Bill Hull, a defensive end, intercepted a George Blanda pass and gave the Western Division champs an opportunity at midfield. A Len Dawson pass to Jack Spikes for 10 yards; a 19-yard run by Spikes, the game's outstanding player, and the Texans were in field goal position. Tommy Brooker's kick was good as the clock read 2:54 gone in the sixth period. Seventy-seven minutes and 54 seconds after game had begun, the Dallas Texans became American Football League champions in 1962.

1966 AFL CHAMPIONSHIP GAME
KANSAS CITY vs. BUFFALO
January 1, 1967

A frigid New Year's day in Buffalo found the Chiefs slight favorites to capture their second A.F.L. Championship in five years. Buffalo had won the League title the past two years and was determined to repeat. The Chiefs and Bills had met twice during the regular season. Kansas City won the first game 42 to 20. Buffalo captured the second, 29 to 14.

The Chiefs capitalized on the Bills' fumble of the opening kickoff as Jerrel Wilson recovered on the Buffalo 31. Three plays later Len Dawson hit Fred Arbanas for a touchdown and the Chiefs led 7 to 0. Buffalo came back to tie the score on a Jack Kemp to Elbert Dubenion pass that covered 69 yards.

The Chiefs regained the lead when Dawson passed to Otis Taylor and the fleet flanker bulled his way to a touchdown. With two minutes to go in the first half Buffalo had a second down on the Chiefs 10. Johnny Robinson then intercepted a Kemp pass on the goal line and returned it 72 yards to the Bills 18, setting up a field goal by Mike Mercer that gave the Chiefs a 17 to 7 lead at halftime.

Early in the final period Dawson passed to Burford for a first down on the Buffalo four. Mike Garrett applied the knockout blow when, after three smashes at the goal, he bolted over from one yard out to give the Chiefs a commanding 24 to 7 lead. Garrett added the game's final touchdown shortly thereafter on a spectacular exhibition of broken field running, reversing his field to score from the Bills 18.

The final score was Kansas City 31, Buffalo 7 and the Chiefs were Super Bowl bound.

FIRST WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP GAME
KANSAS CITY vs. GREEN BAY
January 15, 1967

History was made at the Los Angeles Coliseum on January 15, the Kansas City Chiefs versus the Green Bay Packers for the Championship of the World. The Packers, rated by many experts the greatest team in the history of pro football, were heavy favorites. The Chiefs showed that they came to play on the opening series of downs when first Buck Buchanan, then Bobby Bell, and Jerry Mays dropped Bart Starr for consecutive losses.

Green Bay scored first, midway in the opening quarter, when Max McGee made an unbelievable one-handed catch of a Starr pass. The Chiefs, behind the brilliant play calling and passing of Len Dawson, tied the score early in the second period with Dawson passing to Curtis McClinton for the touchdown.

Green Bay went ahead 14 to 7 on a Jim Taylor touchdown but the Chiefs, with Dawson connecting to Fred Arbanas, Otis Taylor and Chris Gurford moved into Green Bay territory. With time running out, Mike Mercer kicked a 31 yard field goal and the score at halftime was Kansas City 10, Green Bay 14.

The Chiefs had momentum on their side when the second half started and promptly moved to a first down. With third and five on their own 49, Dawson threw a flat pass to Arbanas. Packer safety, Willie Wood, intercepted and returned to the Chiefs five. Elijah Pitts drove over left tackle on the next play for the touchdown to give the Packers a 21 to 10 lead.

The tide of battle turned after Pitts' touchdown. Now the Packers had momentum. With Starr hitting his receivers on key third down situations, the Packers marched to two more touchdowns to make the final score: Kansas City 10, Green Bay 35.

1969 AFL CHAMPIONSHIP GAME
KANSAS CITY vs. OAKLAND
January 4, 1970

January 4, 1970—a date that will go down in professional football history. For on that day the American Football League staged its final Championship Game. Ironically, the Kansas City Chiefs were facing their Western Division rivals, the Oakland Raiders. A Kansas City victory over the New York Jets in the AFL's one-year divisional playoff system had given the Chiefs a shot at an unprecedented third league title. The Raiders had narrowly defeated the Chiefs in two regular season games and were rated four-point favorites for this historic showdown.

Oakland scored the game's first touchdown late in the opening quarter on a three-yard sweep by runningback Charley Smith. A 24-yard pass from Daryle Lamonica to Warren Wells aad set up the scoring play.

The Chiefs mounted a drive in the closing minutes of the first half when Len Dawson hit Otis Taylor on a 14-yard pass to the Kansas City 40. Four plays later Dawson connected with Frank Pitts for 41 yards to the Raiders one-yard line. Runningback Wendell Hayes plunged over for the touchdown and the first half came to a close with the teams deadlocked 7-7.

The Raiders had two chances to break the tie in the third quarter. Both times a George Blanda field goal went astray. Midway through the third period, the Chiefs had the ball on their own two. Taylor got Kansas City out of the hole with a fantastic over the shoulder grab of a Dawson pass for 35 yards. Robert Holmes added 23 yards to the scoring drive by taking a flare pass to the Raiders 34. Five plays later Holmes swept left end from the five for the go ahead touchdown. Jan Stenerud's conversion gave the Chiefs a 14-7 lead.

Then Coach Hank Stram called on the defense. Throughout the year the defense was a key factor in the Chiefs success when the offense was having its problems. Again the defense responded to the challenge.

Led by end Aaron Brown, the Chiefs harrassed Lamonica all afternoon. Two times in the fourth quarter the Chiefs dropped the Oakland signal caller as he was attempting to pass.

Three times in the final quarter a weird turnover gave Oakland the ball in Kansas City territory. Each time a Chiefs interception stopped the scoring threat.

The final turnover occurred when cornerback Emmitt Thomas grabbed his second intereception of the day and raced 62 yards to the Oakland 18. There, Stenerud's 22-yard field goal gave the Chiefs a 17-7 victory, their third AFL Championship and a trip to New Orleans for their second Super Bowl encounter.

FOURTH WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP GAME
KANSAS CITY vs. MINNESOTA
January 11, 1970

The Kansas City Chiefs had fought their way into another historic game January 11, 1970 when they faced the National Football League Champion Minnesota Vikings in the last Super Bowl between the two leagues. The Vikings had outfought and outclassed their NFL rivals in posting a 12-2 record. Their 12 consecutive victories represented pro football's longest winning streak in 1969.

Under Hank Stram's leadership the Chiefs had closed out their decade in the American Football League as its winningest team. They were the only team to win three AFL titles and the only team to represent the league in two Super Bowls. After an 11-3 season, the Chiefs defeated the World Champion New York Jets and the Western Division Champion Oakland Raiders to get to New Orleans.

The Chiefs grabbed an early lead, midway through the first quarter, when Jan Stenerud booted a Super Bowl record 48-yard field goal. Stenerud kicked two more three-pointers in the second quarter to give the Chiefs a 9-0 lead.

Kansas City got the first break in the game when Minnesota's Charlie West fumbled a kickoff and Remi Prudhomme recovered on the Viking 19. After an eight-yard loss, Len Dawson sent Wendell Hayes up the middle for 13 yards on a draw play. A ten-yard pass to Otis Taylor gave the Chiefs a first down at the four. Three plays later Mike Garrett went off-tackle through a devastating hole in the Minnesota line to score the game's first touchdown. The defense shut the Vikings out the rest of the quarter and Kansas City had a 16-0 half-time lead.

Minnesota mounted a third quarter scoring march to cut the Chiefs lead to 16-7. Runningback Dave Osborn capped the 69-yard drive by hurdling four yards into the end zone.

However, any hopes of a Vikings comeback were thrust into oblivion when Dawson hit Otis Taylor on a short hitch, and the Chiefs wide receiver broke two tackles en route to a 46-yard touchdown. The Chiefs went into the final quarter with a 16-point lead. Again, as was the case so often in 1969, the defense took over.

The Vikings had the ball three times in the fourth quarter, and three times the Chiefs regained possession with an interception. Middle linebacker Willie Lanier picked off a Joe Kapp pass at the Kansas City 34. Later, Johnny Robinson, playing with three broken ribs, grabbed another errant throw. In the closing minutes of the game, cornerback Emmitt Thomas, the AFL's interception leader, stole another Minnesota aerial. The Chiefs ran out the clock to capture the AFL's second Super Bowl victory with a 23-7 win over the Vikings.

The American Football League's ten-year history was over. 1970 ushered in a new decade in the era of professional football, a decade that began with the Kansas City Chiefs as World Champions.

The Mack Lee Hill Award

Mack Lee Hill

Center Jack Rudnay was voted winner of the Mack Lee Hill Award given annually to the rookie, who as the inscription on the trophy reads, "Best exemplifies the spirit of the late Mack Lee Hill, 'The man with the giant heart and quiet way.'" The award is named for the Chiefs star runningback whose sudden death while undergoing surgery in 1965 shocked the sports world.

In making the award presentation, Captain Jerry Mays, (who has since retired), said, "Each year we look for a rookie who has displayed the attitude and spirit of the late Mack Lee Hill. Jack Rudnay certainly exemplified everything the award symbolizes. He took over the starting center job midway through the season and did an outstanding job in a difficult starting assignment against the Oakland Raiders. His dedication, determination and effort have been a tremendous example for all veterans."

Rudnay was the Chiefs fourth round draft choice in 1969, but missed the entire season due to a neck injury suffered during preparations for the College All Star's game against the New York Jets. The 6-1, 240 pound native of Chagrin Falls, Ohio was an All Big Ten performer at Northwestern before joining the Chiefs.

Rudnay is the fifth player selected to receive the award. Runningback Mike Garrett was first in 1966, place kicker Jan Stenerud was picked in 1967, runningback Robert Holmes was the recipient in 1968 and last year's winner was cornerback Jim Marsalis.
